If you need to make a repair or replace a part that’s worn out, you can find replacement parts for your Ingersoll Rand products. Not sure were to look? Check these sources.Search by Part NameThe best place to find Ingersoll Rand repair parts is through the company itself. The company has a search feature that allows you to find the part you need just by typing in the name. Type the name of the part you need, such as “Ingersoll Rand pump,” “cutting discs” or “cordless grease gun” to return a list of results. Select the one you need, and request a quote or find a distributor near you.Search by Part NumberPerhaps the best way to search for the exact part that you need is by part number. Once you’ve removed the part from your tool, inspect it for a unique serial or model number. Alternatively, if you have the original packaging for the part or accessory, inspect it for a part number. Enter the part number in the search bar on the Ingersoll Rand website. Request a quote or find a distributor near you.Look Up the Part Name or NumberIf you’ve removed the part from the tool or appliance, but you’re not sure exactly what it is, Ingersoll and Rand can help. The model finder number will help you identify what you need. Navigate through the various categories to find the tool that you have. Continue through each of the sub-categories to narrow down the selections. For example, select if you need consumables like cutting discs or polishing pads, or find an Ingersoll Rand rebuild kit to give your tool a complete overhaul. Once you’ve selected the parts or accessories you need, request a quote from Ingersoll Rand or locate a distributor near you.Online Parts DealersYou’re more likely to find parts and accessories that are an exact match by contacting Ingersoll Rand directly, but many replacement parts come in standard sizes and are available through other manufacturers. Online parts dealers often give you a selection of parts from different manufacturers with affordable prices. If you don’t have an Ingersoll Rand dealer near you, look online for comparable replacement parts.Contact Local Repair CompaniesIf you’re not confident in how to make a repair or replace the part you need, contact a local repair company. The technicians have experience and knowledge in the area and can offer advice. Additionally, they can advise you as to which parts you need and place an order with Ingersoll Rand parts dealers for you — if they don’t already have it in stock.
